

Commenting On Our Study Blog

We use Disqus (pronounced “Discuss”) as the commenting system on our study blog. While you can and are welcome to comment as a guest, for the best community experience, we invite you to create a Disqus account. See below to learn how and why.

Steps to Create a Disqus Account:

1. Click here to enter your information to create your account.
2. Check your email for a confirmation message. (Note: This could take a few minutes to arrive.)
3. Open the email and confirm your account. Congrats! You’re now all set to comment on our study blog. Now, when you go to our blog, you should already be signed in and ready to comment.

Benefits of Creating a Disqus Account:

- Once your account is created, commenting is faster and easier.
- With an account, your comments are added immediately and don’t have to wait for moderator approval like guest comments do, making what you have to share more quickly visible for others to connect with you.
- The name and image you choose to add to your account will consistently show next to each of your comments, helping others in our community begin to recognize you. (Note: you can use your real name and picture OR a created name and image to remain anonymous/private.)
- All your comments will be tracked in your account so you can easily go back to view them and check for replies.
- Disqus will email you when someone replies to your comments.
- You can “follow” others in the community to see and reply to their comments regularly and others can do the same for you. (Note: you can set your account to private if you do not wish others to follow you or see your commenting history.)
- Concerned about email solicitation? Your email isn’t visible to anyone except Disqus, not even our ministry.

We hope you’ll utilize our commenting features to build relationships with other women seeking God’s Truth in their lives. If you’re having trouble creating or validating your account, or commenting on our blog, check out the links below.

We can’t wait to connect with you,

The P31 OBS Team
